

When Working To Empower-Nigeria went to Capital Int'l School, Court Avenue, Oyigbo, River State to enlighten the students about the scourge called HIV/AIDS, there was ovation from the students rattling the air.

Their teachers came out en masse to listen, and the students gave serene ears. The teaching started with introduction of WTE – as an organization formed non-for-profit, based in Canada, creating awareness to people about HIV/AIDS in our societies.

HIV/AIDS have killed people in millions world-over, and have infected thousands of people so far. Researches have shown that there has never been invention for the cure, rather remedies, which are costly to procure.

The students were taught that the best way to keep safe from being infected is total abstinence from illicit sex and should sterilize any metallic objects before using on the flesh. And should not ostracise any person they person that is a carrier of this virus. They should at the same time be Ambassadors of WTE, which they welcomed to habituate, with a loud of applause.

When WTE asked one of their teachers if the school have recorded any HIV/AIDS case among the students, the teacher said, no! WTE prayed in a Christian doctrine, and the programme WTE had with the school was called a day. But WTE had photo-shots as shown below:
